

UDC Housing... Doubts

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell have jointly expressed doubt that the Urban Development Corporation can back up its proposals for new housing in the Broadway East urban renewal area.

"In view of the projected construction," Koenig and Bell said, "it doesn't seem feasible with rising costs that UDC can deliver on its promises."

UDC had proposed up to 150 units of middle-income housing in the Broadway East project on an eight-acre tract of land below St. Mary's Church on Broadway at an estimated cost of some $3 million.

The Common Council, at its April meeting, unanimously gave permission to the mayor to sign a "memorandum of understanding" with UDC, initiating the project. The date of that signing is set for May 28 in New Paltz.

Koenig and Bell are also concerned with the possibility that an out-of-town architect will be used for the project. They said, "We would like to see a local architect retained, one who is familiar with and sensitive to our community, its history and the significance of the urban renewal area as it relates to our entire community.

The UDC under the present proposal has the final say and it can designate a distant architect who comes into Kingston, does his job and goes home.

"We think it would be wiser to have a local architect who has greater incentive to do a good job. He will be staying in the community and his work product will be on exhibit for all to see and compare."

Koenig and Bell are also concerned on what the mayor terms the lack of communication from UDC officials on the proposed Rondout Neighborhood center.

On the topic of the Rondout neighborhood, Herbert Morris, area coordinator for the Mid-Hudson region for UDC said, "The mayor will have that information within a week."

Morris said that it appears that UDC will be able to participate with the city in the construction of the neighborhood center but that it was likely that the city would have to come up with more money. The city had appropriated $96,000 several years ago as its share of the neighborhood center but some $25,000 has been spent on architectural plans, leaving only $71,000 of the bond issue.

Speaking of the architect for the proposed housing, Morris said that the UDC's prime consideration was getting a qualified architect with the staff to handle a project of the size envisioned. "There are a lot of good architects in Kingston," Morris said, "but many do not have the staff to perform the work we need in the time allowed."

Koenig and Bell also are concerned that UDC will not ac-

'If You're Reading This I Am Dead'

SALAMANCA, N. Y. (AP) — "The war that has taken my life and many thousands of others before me, is immoral, unlawful, an atrocity unlike any misfit of good sense and justice known to man."

So wrote Keith K. Franklin, 19, of Salamanca, in a letter he told his parents not to open until after his death. Franklin, an army medic, was killed May 5 in Cambodia.

"If you are reading this letter, you will never see me again," Franklin wrote. "If you are reading this, it means that I have died."

"The question now is whether or not my death has been in vain. My answer is yes," he wrote.

"However, the powers-to-be handed down the decision that my friends and I should go and fight. We will go and we will fight, and I have died but there is still a blank space in my mind as to why."

"President Nixon and President Johnson before him have told the American public time and time again that it was our obligation to the people of South Vietnam to save them from the surging wave of communism which has plotted to engulf them. This is a lie, the magnitude of which is witnessed only by hundreds of thousands of GIs in South Vietnam."

"The inhabitants of this bug-infested, backward, God-forsaken hell-on-earth want no part of the American war machine. But they have no choice ..."

"So as I lie dead, please grant my last request. Help me to inform the American people, the silent majority who have not yet voiced their opinions."

"Help me to let them know that their silence is permitting this atrocity to go on and that my death will not be in vain if by prompting them to act I can in some way help bring an end to the war that brought an end to my life."

Franklin volunteered for the draft in March, 1969. He was sent to Vietnam Feb. 24. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Franklin, said his body would be returned Wednesday or Thursday.

"We'll have the funeral Sunday," Franklin said. "It won't be military. He wanted a civil funeral."

Laird Admits U.S. Advisors Help Saigon Troops in Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has acknowledged small numbers of American troops have ventured briefly into Laos and might do so again.

Testifying Monday before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the Pentagon chief did not go into detail on the Laotian incursions, but he ruled out future large-scale American military operations in Laos.

U.S. forces, he said, have entered Laos only in "protective reaction" situations—hot pursuit of enemy troops fleeing South Vietnam, rescue operations, or in support of air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The secretary made the statement shortly after the Florida White House stated there are no American ground forces in Laos and "no change in our activities in Laos."

"Our forces in Vietnam have had that particular authority," he said of the protective reaction into Laos, adding his belief it does not violate a congressional ban on the use of U.S. ground forces in Laos or Thailand.

But Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman, said there is nothing in the record to suggest the legislative bar on U.S. ground forces in Laos allows any exemption for protective reaction strikes across the border.

The White House also declined Monday to comment on a report that South Vietnamese troops were fighting in Laos. Laird said only that American advisers sometimes accompany South Vietnamese troops into Laos.

Nixon has declared that no U.S. ground troops were involved in the fighting, adding that 1,040 Americans, including diplomats and advisers, are stationed there.

When questioned about Cambodia, the secretary refused, as he has in the past, to rule out continued U.S. air strikes on North Vietnamese sanctuaries in Cambodia after American troops have left.

He also said such strikes might be launched at targets more than 21 miles from the Cambodian border, the limit Nixon set for American troop operations.

Laird also told the committee he had not anticipated the extent of the protests the Nixon orders would produce.

"I did not estimate that as accurately as perhaps I should have as a politician," he said. "But I don't think that anyone could anticipate the situation at Kent University or some of the other ... confrontations that have taken place."

"I do feel, however, that the support for the President of the United States is very strong," Laird said. "I believe there is no question that a majority of the American people support the President ... the desire of the President to destroy the sanctuaries."

Herbert Klein, director of communications at the White House, said in Chicago U.S. military operations in Cambodia are a "story of success."

He said reports from the battlefields indicate American troops in two weeks have captured some 8.5 million rounds of ammunition and 9,100 weapons at enemy bases.

"This was more than was seized in the last year in Vietnam," he said.

The report of captured arms was issued the same day a Defense Department spokesman called an alleged message from Laird to the U.S. commander in Vietnam a "phony."

Newsweek magazine, which said it stood by its story, reported Laird had sent a message to Gen. Creighton Abrams saying the American public "would be impressed" by the capture of high-ranking prisoners, major enemy headquarters and arms caches in Cambodia.

In other areas, the U.S. State Department has endorsed a proposal by 11 Asian and Pacific nations calling for an Indochina peace conference to preserve Cambodia's neutrality.

The statement was issued at Jakarta, Indonesia, and urged reactivation of international control machinery to preserve Cambodian neutrality.

The incursion into Cambodia also prompted Red China to cancel talks with the United States scheduled Wednesday in Warsaw. The Red Chinese state- ment cited an "increasingly grave situation" has been created by American action in Cambodia.

Council Hearing Tonight On Metropolitan Complex

KINGSTON

The Kingston Common Council will hold a public hearing tonight at 7:30 in the Council Chambers at city hall on a proposal by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to build a $1.6 million facility in the Uptown Renewal Project.

The public hearing will be conducted by Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo, president of the Common Council. Residents will be invited to speak either for or against the proposal which has been termed "a major breakthrough in the urban renewal development program."

The facility will employ about 400 persons and will be built on a five-acre site at the corner of Washington Avenue and the new Clinton Avenue (now under construction). Construction is expected to begin next month, pending final approval by city, state and federal agencies.

Gallo recessed the regular meeting of the Common Council on May 6 for just that purpose. The Council is expected to meet either Thursday or Friday night, after review of the testimony at tonight's public hearing, to vote on the Metropolitan proposal. The Council, urban renewal agency, state and federal urban renewal officials have already approved Metropolitan as an eligible and qualified developer.

Metropolitan has maintained a record storage center employing about 100 persons in Kingston for many years, located on Greenkill Avenue. The company will maintain its facility on Greenkill Avenue and hire an additional 200 to 250 employees to staff the new building in the uptown project. It is expected that construction of the new facility will be completed in May of next year.

The uptown project is progressing on two other fronts — groundbreaking for the new $700,000 parking structure on North Front Street was held last week and Charles Roach, developer for the Goodyear property on North Front announced today that he will hold bid opening on the new building on Thursday.

Construction of the $135,000 (estimated) Goodyear service center is expected to begin in July for a December completion. It is also expected that construction on the new garage will be completed in early December.

New Concept of Career Increments

Onteora, Teachers Ratify Pact

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK With no apparent snarls encountered, negotiations between the Ontario Board of Education and that school district's Teachers Association have resulted in the ratification of a teachers contract for 1970-71.

Said school board negotiator Edward Goddard at the Ontario board meeting Monday night in Woodstock School: "We are very pleased this year that compared to other districts, we had no real problems concerning our teachers contract."

Onteora Teachers Association president Richard Nixdorf apparently agreed. He said teaching members of his group "are happy" that through negotiations, beginning salaries will go from $6,800 to $7,200 yearly. Nixdorf said other highlights of the contract include "a new concept of career increments" after a teacher has given extended periods of time to the profession. He described that time as between 20 and 25 years.

He also felt that an important "victory" was an agreement by the board and Association to appoint a joint committee to work out the pressing problem of increasing class sizes. Teachers are vitally concerned that class sizes are "getting too large," especially in some of the elementary schools of the district.

Board of Education president Charles Weidner has appointed trustees Peter Rakov, Patrick Dodge and Margaret Atherton to serve on such a committee, and the Teachers Association will name its representatives shortly.

Other contract victories cited by Nixdorf included: the institution of an exploratory or experimental program on teacher aides to be used throughout the district; continuation of sabbatical leaves of absence and the fact that teachers have been guaranteed daily planning periods in both the elementary and secondary schools of the district.

A matter that has been under consideration for some months, action on procedure for control but that apparently came to a head in the wake of nationwide protests by students over escalation of the war into Cambodia and the Kent State deaths of four arranged through the proper channels or through the Student Guard confrontation, was discussed by the board at the meeting. It resulted in board "confronted clamly to ascertain the problem." Emphasis also is put on "trying to identify the leaders" and getting them to "discuss the problem." Another step would be to inform the parents of those involved and ask them to come to the scene. The procedure takes a stronger turn when it calls for reporting the situation to the proper authorities (state police, local agencies), requesting them to "stand by quietly" in case they are needed after they have reported to the scene. The procedure is definitely worded to give any authorization to "use civil authorities" only to the superintendent of schools, or a person "specifically appointed" to serve in his absence, it was stressed. Finally, the procedure calls for prosecution of all violators to the full extent of the law.

Cement Protection Aim of Fish Bill

WASHINGTON Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., has joined in introducing legislation aimed at protecting the cement products industry against foreign dumping of cement in this country.

"Although the bill, if enacted into law, will provide all domestic industries with a source of effective relief against the unfair trade practice of foreign import dumping, as the 28th Congressional District is one of the largest cement producing areas in New York State, it is this feature which is of particular interest to me," the Congressman Fish said. "The cement industry has been traditionally one of the hardest hit by foreign product dumping."

European manufacturers have been dumping their products particularly on the East Coast. Fish's office reported today. Japan also, is now beginning to ship cement here.

The Hudson Valley's cement manufacturers, Hudson Cement in Kingston and Marquette Cement in the Town of Catskill have not contacted Fish individually concerning the matter, but Fish's office reports that various cement manufacturing associations have sought legislation against foreign dumping.

The proposed bill aimed at strengthening the Anti-Dumping Act of 1921, would ratify the reasonable injury and industry standards adopted by the present Tariff Commission.

The bill is based on well established fair trade concepts and is not a protectionist measure, according to Congressman Fish. "Dumping is universally condemned by all major trading nations as well as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade," Congressman Fish explained.

Dr. Holcomb Sr.—Albany Medical Alumni Award

ALBANY
Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr., was presented the Honorary Alumni Award at the Alumni Day program of the Albany Medical College Alumni Association held recently in Albany.

In making the award, Dr. Gerald B. Austin, president of the association, said Dr. Holcomb, class of 1916, was chosen for being an outstanding alumnus, physician, humanitarian and civic leader.

In the past Dr. Holcomb has received "outstanding citizenship" awards from the Lions Club and Kingston Post American Legion. In 1967 he was presented a scroll by the Medical Society of the State of New York "in grateful recognition of his many years of service and loyalty" including 10 years as speaker and vice speaker of the Medical Society House of Delegates.

Dr. Holcomb attended Catskill High School and Rutgers University before entering the Albany Medical College. After his graduation in 1916 he was with the Gouverneur Division of Bellevue Hospital, New York City, from 1916-1918.

Having completed his hospital training he received a commission with the rank of first lieutenant in the Medical Reserve Corps and was on active duty as a member of the Cardiovascular Board, Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky. and at Anniston, Ala. After separation from the U.S. Army he began practice in internal medicine on Main Street in Kingston in November, 1919 and then moved to the present residence and office in 1921 at 188 Fair Street, Kingston, where he has remained throughout these many years.

Dr. Holcomb was a member of the Board of Associate Editors of the Albany Medical Annals 1938-1939; a member of the executive committee of the Association 1939-1942 to 1945 and 1955-1958; in 1966 he chaired his 50th reunion.

Dr. Holcomb has had many hospital connections: attending physician, Kingston City Hospital and Otisville Municipal Hospital (New York City Tuberculosis Division); consultant in Tuberculosis, Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, Greene County Memorial Hospital, U.S. Veterans Administration Hospital, Ellenville, and Margaretville Hospital. During World War II he was vice-chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross; director of the Emergency Hospital for the Kingston area; and a member of the Medical Advisory Board.

He was chairman of the Budget and Finance Committee, 1961-1965, president of the third District Branch 1947-1948. He was nominated by the Comitia Minora for the Presidents Citation (for outstanding deeds — public service in the community; such service must be voluntary and uncompensated). Among some of the activities mentioned in the presentation of this award were his presidency of the Medical Society of the County of Ulster; his many years as a Director, President and now President Emeritus of the Ulster County

Tuberculosis and Health Association; his several years' presidency of the Kingston Community Concert Association; his two terms on the Kingston Board of Education during the years when this was an appointed rather than a elective office; been interested in the Children's Home and established The Edward M. Stanbrough Loan Bank for about 30 years and his Fund to help with the children's education. He has "given of his wisdom, energy and time freely in order that the lives of these children, both present and future, might be bettered."

Dr. Holcomb has been a director of the Kingston Savings Bank for about 30 years and is presently vice-president of that bank. He has also been chairman of Camp Happyland, a summer camp for underprivileged children. He is married to the former Emma W. Reimels of Brooklyn. Their son, Dr. Frederic Holcomb Jr., also a graduate of Albany Medical College, is head of the medical department at IBM, Kingston.

Four Area Physicians Recognized for Help

ALBANY
Three Kingston physicians and one from Woodstock have been awarded a certificate of recognition by the Department of Postgraduate Medicine at Albany Medical College for their assistance as special consultants to the college's postgraduate education program.

The Kingston group included Dr. Arthur G. Carr, Dr. John A. Olivet and Dr. John R. Roberts. The Woodstock physician was Kenneth M. Bremer.

The award was announced by Dr. Frank M. Woolsey, Jr., chairman of the College's Department of Postgraduate Medicine and director of the Albany Regional Medical Program (ARMP).

The doctors have been serving on a panel representing physicians from New York, Vermont and Massachusetts to advise the college in preparing programs that meet medical education needs of practicing physicians.

The panel has been meeting regularly at the College to plan postgraduate education activities before they are made available for general use by the college. A project of the Albany Regional Medical Program, the panel is designed to improve medical care by assisting physicians to keep up with today's rapidly changing medical knowledge.

"The most important factor in high quality medical care is the knowledge of the physician supervising the care," Dr. Woolsey said, "since education can become outdated, an effective program of continuing education is essential so that patients will benefit from new medical advances."

"This project provides us with realistic guidance in these educational efforts since it draws upon the first-hand knowledge of practicing physicians in the areas we serve," he said. "We appreciate the time and effort these physicians have contributed toward this program and the goal of improved medical care."

The Albany Regional Medical Program is part of a national effort to improve medical care by stimulating innovation in the field of medicine and by accelerating distribution of new medical information to health and medical professionals. It is administered by Albany Medical College.

LWV Reviews Charter

KINGSTON
Now that the Ulster County Charter Commission has completed the final draft of the proposed Charter, the League of Women Voters of Ulster County are reviewing the document and preparing to issue a statement on their position. The League will support it if it conforms with standards the League has derived from three years of their own study, it was announced. The preliminary reading of the newly printed charter suggests that a number of the League's suggestions have been incorporated. No statement will be issued until a thorough examination has been completed.

After a year of active research into types of county government the League issued a statement in the Spring of '68 reflecting a consensus of its membership in favor of the charter form of government as offering the most for Ulster County.

In the Fall of '68 after additional study into the executive, legislative and financial and general aspects of the charters the League's charter suggests that a number of the League's suggestions be used as a yardstick against which a proposed charter could be measured.

A charter, which is comparable to the federal or state constitution, defines the organization, powers, functions and basic procedures of the county government. Once a proposed charter is written, it must then be approved by the County Legislature before being submitted to the voters at an election.

As of 1970, 13 counties in New York State have availed themselves of the advantages of a charter, among them Dutchess and Orange Counties.

Marbletown Appeals For Fresh Air Hosts

STONE RIDGE
The Marbletown Fresh Air Fund Committee is seeking area families who would like to invite a child from the inner-city for a two-week summer vacation in July.

This is Marbletown's first year as an independent Friendly Town and it will play host to city children from July 15 to July 29.

The Fresh Air Fund is in its 93rd year of providing summer vacations in suburban and rural areas for children from New York City. The fund provides medical care and transportation. The host family need only extend its hospitality as it would to any young house guest. The children range in age from 5 to 12 and the host may specify the age, race, and sex of the child he would like to invite.

Applications to participate in the program are available from Marbletown chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Diamond, Stone Ridge, or from members of the committee, Mr. and Mrs. William Davenport, Stone Ridge, and Mrs. and Mrs. John Krom, RD 3, Kingston.

BIKE WINNER—One of the winners in the recent Bike Field Day sponsored by the Kingston Lions Club was Clayton Van Kleec of Lake Katrine. Other winners of gift certificates presented by Schaller's Automotive Service were Jack Wrixson and Michael Mills of Kingston. The Field Day activity took place at Kingston High School, the George Washington School and the M. Clifford Miller School and consisted of a safety inspection of all participants' bicycles, and an actual performance test. All testing was done by Kingston Lions and Leo members.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened slightly higher in moderate turnover today.

Stocks edged higher Monday, but light volume indicated that many traders had moved off to the sidelines to await further news developments, possibly on Cambodia or the economic situation. The market's action was characterized as a continuation of a technical rally that started Friday. And while some analysts believed the advance has further to go, others felt investors may need some incentive before giving the list another boost.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a gain of 0.23 per cent on 334 issues on the tape. Of these, 127 advanced and 97 declined.

Among the motors, Chrysler gained  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 23 $\frac{1}{2}$ , with Ford  $\frac{1}{4}$  higher at 41 $\frac{1}{4}$ . In the electronics, IBM fell 1 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 268 $\frac{1}{2}$ , but National Cash Register gained  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 55 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Magnavox dipped  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 24 $\frac{1}{2}$ , while Sperry Rand rose  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 28 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and Telex Corp.  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Westinghouse also edged up to 64, but Honeywell surrendered  $\frac{1}{4}$  to 105 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Fairchild Camera rose 1 to 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

SCLC Coffin March--Protests the Violence

PERRY, Ga. (AP)—Black draped coffins on wagons pulled by mules lead a multiple-purpose protest march leaving here today.

The coffins, and predominantly Negro marchers walking behind them, are headed for the tomb of assassinated civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., about 120 miles northwest of Perry in Atlanta.

The coffins symbolize six Negro men killed in a racial disturbance in Augusta, Ga., two Negro youths killed at Jackson, Miss., State College and four white college students killed at the campus of Kent State University in Ohio.

The march was organized by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), the Atlanta-based civil rights organization founded by King.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded King as president of the SCLC after King's assassination in April 1968, said the march was being held to protest "the violence, brutality and killings that have thrown America into a national emergency in recent weeks."

The protesters include U.S. war activity in Southeast Asia as one of their targets. Abernathy also spoke of marshaling public support for the Voting Rights Act and the 18-year-old vote.

Perry, a city of about 8,000, some 40 per cent Negro, has been the scene of recent SCLC-led protests involving school affairs and alleged discriminatory hiring practices in city businesses.

On Saturday, the marchers and persons from other states plan to gather at King's tomb, then march to downtown Atlanta past the State Capitol and on to King's alma mater, Morehouse College.

A rally is scheduled at which speeches are planned by Abernathy, King's widow, State Rep. Julian Bond, Sen. George McGovern, D.S.D., and David Hilliard of the Black Panther party.

The march starting point here was the Spring Street Annex, an old building in the Negro section that used to be a school and now serves as a community center.

The marchers will be escorted by members of the 12-man Perry police force. Houston County sheriff's officers and state troopers.

At Fort Valley, 11 miles away, the marchers hoped to be joined by a contingent of students from all-Negro Fort Valley State College, scene of recent arson incidents.

From Fort Valley, the schedule calls for a 20-mile march to Macon on Wednesday, another 24 miles to Forsyth on Thursday, 26 miles to Griffin on Friday and a final 40 miles to Atlanta on Saturday.

Meanwhile, at the Spring Annex, Negro leaders and community blacks met and sang freedom songs past midnight while the pine-wood coffins were brought in to be covered with black cloth.

"They can't jail us all," was the refrain of one of the songs sung enthusiastically by about 200 youthful blacks jamming the old auditorium.

Good Growth Projected
For Laser Industry

Q—I wish to invest a small amount in a laser stock. Would you please give me information about some companies in this field? Have heard favorable things about Spacerays.—S. K.

A—There is little doubt that the laser industry has tremendous future growth potential. According to trade sources, 1970 volume may rise 18 per cent and move ahead at a 20 per cent annual rate through 1972. Thus over 800 companies—in an attempt to cash in on this growth—are now in some way involved with lasers.

Perkin-Elmer has captured 8-10 per cent of the total laser market. Sales of lasers and related equipment represent a small but growing part of P. K. N.'s $200-million yearly volume. Company has expanded its markets by shifting emphasis from laser production to laser-based equipment, such as its "Lasergage." In the six months ended January, 1970, per-share net rose to 53 cents from 47 cents. Shares offer participation in the emerging laser business without the high risk factor.

Spacerays, a younger company, has been aggressively developing and implementing industrial applications for the laser. It has established a job shop, using the equipment at its disposal, which has brought in contracts and equipment sales. Backlog is at an all-time high and sales in 1970 should double the 1 million estimated for 1969. Speculative shares have long-term appreciation potential.

Q—Can you give me any information on Leasco Data Processing? I have shares at $55 and $30 and it is now below 20. Has something gone wrong?—R. A.

A—Accounting procedures used by computer leasing and other firms have been sharply criticized by some analysts. The argument boils down to what should or should not be included as earnings. Earnings have included capital gains plus income from an insurance subsidiary as well as profit from its computer leasing and consulting operations. Although these have been acceptable accounting practices, new guidelines being adopted would substantially reduce reported results for firms like Leasco. Because of the uncertainty, trades have dumped shares. I would not be so hasty, however, in writing off LDP at these depressed prices.

For Empire State—We Get Bluebird

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The bluebird became the official New York State bird today with the approval of Gov. Rockefeller.

The bill was passed by the 1970 legislature despite suggestions from some lawmakers that the sparrow or the pigeon would be more appropriate. One lawmaker wondered if many city residents had ever seen a bluebird.

Rockefeller also signed bills that will make divorces easier, marriages more difficult, eliminate housing discrimination against women and crack down on car thieves.

The divorce measure, effective Sept. 1, 1972, will permit a divorce to be granted to a couple who have proved that they have lived apart for more than a year. The waiting period now is two years.

Another part of the bill will increase the waiting period for a marriage license after a blood test from three to ten days. Sponsors said this would eliminate "lost weekends" and prevent hasty or impulsive marriages.

Under terms of the measure for women, discrimination in housing accommodations for reason of sex will be prohibited unless the rental is restricted to individuals of the same sex such as in YMCA lodgings.

The bill affords statutory recognition to the right of women in our free society to equal access to housing, as we have heretofore recognized their opportunity in employment," Rockefeller said.

The package dealing with automobile thieves will, among other things, forbid tampering with vehicle identification numbers, require that the manufacturer's statement of origin be submitted in addition to the vehicle number when applying for a registration, and mandate an examination of the identification number during the annual inspections of the automobile.

Other measures approved Monday by the governor included those that will:

—Permit a person to keep, without payment, any merchandise or goods sent to him without authorization.

—Require the State Correction Commission to establish training programs for personnel employed by local correctional institutions.

—Increase the state's share of operating expenses of community colleges from 33 1/3 to 40 per cent. The colleges could apply for the increased aid by showing adoption of programs to admit all high school graduates and returning veterans.

Manson Looms as Sole Defense Witness

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson is expected to be the sole defense witness among those accused in the Sharon Tate murders, sources close to the bizarre case said today.

Manson and three young women—Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten—are scheduled to go to trial June 15. The women are not expected to testify, although it was Miss Atkins' statement to a grand jury that brought their indictment.

A fourth young member of the "Manson Family," Linda Kasabian, is reported prepared to appear for the state regarding the killing of Miss Tate and four others at the actress' canyon estate Aug. 9 and the slayings of grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife the next evening.

Although she was pictured in Miss Atkins' grand jury account of the slayings as never having entered either home, she was for a month a member of the "family" and will be the key state witness in trying to establish Manson was the onetime Western movie set mastermind of a conspiracy to kill out of hatred for the "square" world.

Miss Atkins told the grand jury Miss Kasabian acted as a lookout during the killings at both homes and then accompanied the band in their "creeping" (black clothing) back to the Spahn Ranch, the where they used as a commune.

Manson is not accused of actually committing any of the murders. He was not even present at the Tate residence and, according to Miss Atkins, he tied up the LaBiancas but left the house and waited outside in a car while the two were killed.

The whole case against the conspiracy is criminally proving a conspiracy.

The prosecutors who will handle the case are Deputy District Attorneys Aaron Stovitz and Vincent Bugliosi. Bugliosi says the state will proceed on the court-tested theory of "vicarious conspiracy."

"That theory holds that once a conspiracy is entered into," Bugliosi says, "each member of the conspiracy is criminally responsible for all the crimes committed by his coconspirators if said crimes were in furtherance of the object of the conspiracy."

There is a possibility the trial may be delayed. That depends on the extradition from McKinney, Tex., of Charles Watson, who was said by Miss Atkins to have actually committed all but one of the murders.

Women's Drive Is Broad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The women's liberation movement is attracting a much wider cross-section of the nation's female population than just the militant bra burners and down-with-men types, according to one of the administration's highest ranking women.

The drive for better treatment of women is much broader than many females, let alone males, realize, Elizabeth Koontz says, pointing to lady lawyers and other women professionals as examples.

Mrs. Koontz, director of the Labor Department's Women's Bureau, told the Women's National Democratic Club Monday the realization of how the nation is deprived of female brainpower is causing fundamental changes in attitudes by women of all ages and areas of life.

Women lawyers have organized to seek out sex discrimination cases to get court rulings clearing the way for equal pay and opportunity, she said.

Other women, Mrs. Koontz added, are fighting the "SB" syndrome—the "Southern belle" conditioning that has led us as women to be reared in a cocoon of thinking.

A "SB" is taught to praise Papa for being good to her and providing for her well-being. Mrs. Koontz said, in return for which she must kiss and flatter him and never question his judgments.

ANITA COMPLAINS—Swedish actress Anita Ekberg, once the star of the "La Dolce" set, called police Monday in Rome to complain her husband had beaten her in a hotel room. Police said the 38-year-old actress, who suffered abrasions on her arms and appeared near hysteria, had reportedly begun quarreling with her actor husband, Rik Van Nutter, after a night on the town. The couple is shown here. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

House Negroes Charge Nixon Snub

WASHINGTON (AP) — All commitments, creating an the presidential meeting in a nine Negro members of the "alienation as deep as it is dangerous," House, charging the "White gerous" between himself and the nation's blacks.

President Nixon has failed to meet his responsibilities to America's black citizens.

In a statement signed by the nine and read to the House Monday by Rep. William L. Clay, administration's apathy toward D.Mo., they said the President the problems of blacks. Clay said they first asked for letter Feb. 18. The only reply, he said, was an April 20-dated letter signed by a minor White House staff member saying Nixon was too busy for such a conference.

Clay quoted the letter as adding the representatives might hear further from the White House "if an appropriate time arises."

What Price Permissiveness?

It is not an exaggeration to say that parental permissiveness, which is blamed for the immoral conditions of the day, may be at fault also for many of the two million cases of infectious venereal disease treated in the United States last year. The statistics were gathered from every state in the union by the American Social Health Association in cooperation with six leading health and medical organizations, including the American Medical Association.

The survey showed that a total of 512,906 cases of V.D. had been reported to the nation's health authorities—494,137 of gonorrhea and 18,769 of infectious syphilis. However, the association estimated that actual cases of V.D. were approximately four times the reported total.

A committee of 20 health experts recommended that routine tests to diagnose gonorrhea be given at gynecological, prenatal and family planning clinics since nine out of every 10 women with acute gonorrhea are unaware of their infection. There are 20 states that do not have laws allowing minors to be treated for V.D. without parental consent and the committee recommended that they review their laws and regulations to facilitate such treatment.

Perhaps it is too late to warn youngsters of the dangers of promiscuity. But they must get treatment for such infections if they are not to suffer consequences too horrid to detail in this brief space. Their doctors will explain them.

Youths Turn to Lobbying

The rebellious collegians learned a lesson from their recent appearance in Washington. They learned that 50,000 to 100,000 may gather in the Ellipse and hear speeches and nothing may come of it, even if the President of the United States surprises a group of them by visiting with them before dawn. They learned that they must lobby in Congress if they want legislation to end the war and how useless it is to destroy or to threaten destruction and violence on the campus.

With little else to do as they gathered from all corners of the country, the students started visiting offices of members of Congress. They found they were listened to, sometimes by staff members, sometimes by the legislator himself. They went away with a heady feeling that they were getting somewhere at last.

The 33 Senators and the full membership of the House, who stand for reelection this fall, were particular objectives of the young lobbyists. And since Princeton has set the style by announcing a two-week recess before the election to permit those interested to work for candidates, with other colleges and universities falling in line, the lobbyists were able to promise either that they would campaign for or oppose those who did not listen sympathetically to them.

Some of the students are not old enough to vote, but there is no law that says they can't lobby, and can't campaign. Congressmen and Senators up for election this fall remember the way the youth squads turned over New Hampshire to Senator Eugene J. McCarthy in the first 1968 Presidential primary and listened closely. A new force in politics was aborning and they were not scorning it.

This turn might be a more mature and effective one than the destructive and violent one of yesterday. It could mean young people are discovering they can do more within the system than out of it. But unless youth learns to think for themselves, they will be mouthing absurdities and worse, at the behest of the enemies of our country.

Immigration Law Overhaul

The immigration law of 1965 is not working out as it was supposed to. Instead of opening a new era in immigration, the act is barring our close friends and neighbors. With Cuban refugees taking a sizable part of the 120,000 ceiling placed on Western Hemisphere immigration, for the first time Canadians and Mexicans seeking visas are being turned away. Canada, Mexico and the United States previously had permitted unlimited immigration and in Mexico and Canada the policy remains.

Other protests came from Ireland, which had no waiting list and was largely shut out under the first come, first served policy of the new act. Italy was supposed to profit by the change. Its waiting list exceeded 200,000, but the new law put a limit of 20,000 for each country, so those waiting 10 years to join their families here still can't get in.

Our present policy is creating chaos and alienating our friends. Members of the House immigration subcommittee are concerned. A flood of legislative remedies is on the way. They should be closely examined to make sure we don't trade ourselves into another Pandora's Box.

A 12 per cent cut in logging on Oregon forest lands ordered by Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel has a dual purpose—environmental protection and compensation for heavy salvage operations necessitated by severe fire and windstorms of the last 10 years. It will take many years to make up for such losses.

David Lawrence Says Dangerous Subversives Organize Campus Riots

WASHINGTON — All of a sudden a sensational piece of news saddens millions who read it on the front pages of newspapers or hear it on radio or television broadcasts. Immediately, people in politics make accusations, and everybody in authority — the Governor of the state, the National Guard or even the President — is blamed. But the vast majority of citizens do not get the background of what has happened.

The Kent State University episode, in which four students were killed, is an interesting example. A summary of Associated Press and United Press International dispatches with particular reference to campus disturbances in the last two years at Kent College is significant.

The United Press International, in November 1968, reported that about 250 members of the Students for a Democratic Society and the Black United Students demonstrated against police recruitment on the campus.

The Associated Press reported a demonstration on April 8, 1969, led by the Students for a Democratic Society, which brought clashes with university police. The SDS was then banned from the Kent campus, 37 students were suspended and five were charged with assault and battery. The demonstrators had demanded that the university abolish the reserve officers training corps, a crime laboratory and a law-enforcement training school. On October 7, a campus survey showed that 81 per cent of the Kent students approved the calling in of the State Police to put down the April disruption.

On May 1, 1970, according to the Associated Press, hundreds of students broke windows, set fires and damaged cars in a march from downtown Kent to the 19,000-student campus in a protest against the American military move into Cambodia.

On May 2, the Associated Press said National Guardsmen were sent to the Kent campus, and demonstrators burned down the Reserve Officers Training Corps building. Students took away firemen's hoses and turned them on the fire fighters.

On May 4, the Associated Press reported that four students were shot to death and 12 other persons were wounded or injured when National Guardsmen opened fire on demonstrators at Kent State University. The guardsmen had been targets of bricks and rocks before they opened fire.

Many millions of readers see news accounts of student raids on "ROTC" buildings, and don't know what the initials mean. They don't realize that these are branches of the Reserve Officer Training Corps and are operated by the armed forces of the United States. Attacks on such structures are a grave offense, especially during a war.

Senator Mike Mansfield, leader of the Democratic Party in the United States Senate, said last Friday, according to the United Press International, that the program of the Reserve Officers Training Corps on campuses has become a convenient but somewhat mistaken target for student frustration and occasional violence. He declared that the ROTC law was changed years ago to make the project one of "local option" with each campus and largely elective with the students. He added: "The right of students to participate in ROTC should be honored and respected."

The Army needs men with college training in certain fields. It surely is not in the public interest for any group to block the efforts of the military to obtain volunteers who can be enlisted for officer training. Surprisingly, the campus demonstrations against the ROTC have been continued notwithstanding the fact that training programs are primarily voluntary.

Members of Congress are by no means in agreement as to what caused the shootings at Kent University, but the opinion of many is that in a disturbance involving many hundreds of students, sniping by outsiders is likely as a provocation.

Representative Roger H. Zion, Republican of Indiana, mentions that he has gotten a copy of an instruction sheet given demonstrators at Lafayette, Ind., which he says included information on how to use Molotov cocktails, how to disrupt communications and how to wreck trains. He adds:

"The dangerous subversives who are organizing these activities travel from campus to campus."

A better-informed student body in every college will help to defeat the troublemakers.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

He is tall, blondish-gray, a man with a square, handsome face. He is also a genius. And yet, 25 years ago, he stopped working and Englishmen stopped dying. His name is Werner von Braun. He is to rocketry what Einstein was to mathematics; what Steinmetz was to electricity; what Teller is to nuclear physics.

Professor von Braun is a rare man. He worked for Adolf Hitler and he worked for Harry Truman. A few years ago, I found that he had a sense of humor too. I wrote to him at Huntsville, Ala., and asked him to play in a golf match. He wrote back that he could not spare the time from his work in designing missiles.

"In any case," he concluded, "in golf you count one, two, three, four, five. In my business, we count five, four, three, two, one."

He is 58, married to his pretty cousin, Maria von Quistorp. Von Braun has been a citizen of the United States for 15 years. There are two daughters, Iris and Margrit, but these are the vignettes which humanize the genius; the family statistics which equate him with the rest of us.

One might also cite the fact that he is a religious Lutheran, who never permits himself to forget how much he owes to God. On the other hand, Donald Robinson wrote a highly selective book called "The Hundred Most Important People in the World Today" and did not hesitate to include the Herr Professor along with such company as Leonid Brezhnev, Mao Tse-tung, Golda Meir, and Pope Paul VI.

He was 12 years old, the son of a German Baroness and a member of the cabinet in the Weimar Republic, when he stood in the Tiergarten Strasse in Berlin and set off six small rockets tied to a wagon. It went up, and Werner came down. The police arrested him. He required diplomacy on the part of his father to get Werner out of trouble.

In his mind's eye, he saw big rockets flying off through the air to distant planets. "Some day," he told his mother, "men will live on the moon." He was still a teenager when he studied under Professor Hermann Oberth, the true father of rockets. The middle-aged man and the boy were fellow astronomical dreamers. Von Braun had his doctorate by 1934, and a man named Hitler had been chancellor of Germany for a year.

Patriotism is always a noble virtue, no matter how vicious the nation nor how merciless the government. Von Braun was a German. He was sent to Peenemunde and ordered to devise military rockets. He went. His work flourished so quickly that Hitler sent a group of scientists to assist the young man.

Von Braun's greatest triumph — even though he was still thinking of outer space rather than war — was the V-2. It was set on sled runners in Belgium and France and, when it blasted off, it passed the speed of sound. Thus, when it landed in and around London, it exploded first and, in the silence that followed, people heard it approaching.

No true scientist is interested in killing, and Heinrich Himmler had Werner von Braun arrested for spending too much time designing rockets that would orbit the earth, rather than dynamite-laden, short-range missiles that would kill British civilians.

The head of the Peenemunde project, Major General Walter Dornberger, took a long chance with his own life. He went directly to Hitler and said that the rockets work would have to be halted unless he could get von Braun back on the job. Hitler ordered the scientist released.

Von Braun's loyalty to his native land may have been secure, but his appreciation of Hitler's madness was minuscule. So, when General Eisenhower's armies crossed the Rhine, von Braun told 5,000 of his best workers that they had a choice: either remain in Peenemunde and be captured by the Russians, or slink off to the Bavarian Alps and be captured by the Americans.

The workers chose the Americans. They were captured, interrogated, sorted, and the young professor found himself in America with his best workers. After the war, they worked for the U.S. Army and devised the Redstone and Jupiter missiles.

When the Russians sent the first missile into earth orbit, Sputnik I, in October, 1957, the U.S. ordered the U.S. Navy to duplicate the feat. It failed. President Eisenhower asked von Braun to do it. In 83 days, he put Explorer I into orbit. "I bootlegged it," he said, meaning that he had been working on the project when he had been told to stop work and let the Navy do the job.

The Russians came up with much more powerful rocket engines than the U.S. Von Braun said, "Fear not" and tied five big U.S. engines together. This gave the U.S. its first Saturn, with 7,600,000 pounds of thrust.

I dislike putting the rap on him, but he's a lousy golfer. Counts backwards...

Jack Anderson Says U.S. Secretly Sends Bombs To the Israeli Air Force

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has taken pains to hush up the fact that the United States, in the strictest of secrecy, has made bombs available to the Israeli Air Force.

The first hint that the U.S. might be giving secret aid to Israel leaked out of the President's closed door conference last week with the nation's governors. During his report on the Middle East, he confided guardedly that the U.S. was helping Israel in ways he couldn't talk about.

He didn't mention the bomb shipments or otherwise indicate what secret help the U.S. might be furnishing. However, this column has learned from the most reliable sources that Israel urgently needed bombs and the U.S. agreed to supply some.

In the past, the U.S. has been careful to furnish Israel only weapons that could be justified as defensive. But the Arabs aren't likely to regard bombs as "defensive in view of Israeli air raids deep inside Egypt."

The bomb deal received the personal approval of President Nixon, who has been criticized by Jewish leaders in this country for not doing enough for Israel. But top State Department officials, apparently, have been kept in the dark about the bomb shipments.

State Opposes Aid

The State Department has opposed military aid to Israel and has counseled against engaging in an arms race with Russia in the Middle East. Indeed, the Department has suggested that the Soviet military transfusion might even improve the prospects for peace by giving Egypt the strength to negotiate a settlement.

As long as the Arab countries are as weak to withstand the pressure from the Palestinian underground, the reasoning goes, negotiations will get nowhere. The Egyptian, Jordanian and Lebanese governments have all been considered too weak to make peace without risking overthrow by the Palestinian nationalists.

The State Department doesn't want the U.S. to upset the delicate new power balance by overreacting to the introduction of Soviet-manned planes and missiles into Egypt. For close to a year, U.S. intelligence has monitored Soviet pilots at the controls of planes with Egyptian markings. But the Soviet involvement has been steadily increasing.

President Nixon, meanwhile, has tended to look upon Israel increasingly as the best bulwark against communist encroachment in the Middle East.

Footnote: The State Department has advised the White House that Egypt's President Nasser, despite his hostile speeches, has remained privately friendly to the U.S. When ex-President Johnson sent Robert Anderson to Cairo to warn Nasser against military involvement with Russia, according to a confidential account of the meeting, Nasser replied: "Tell President Johnson that the Soviets have not asked for a base. We give bases to no one. They only asked for fresh water supplies...I told them they may have all the water they want, that they can make needed repairs and stay for awhile."

Nixon's Mood

President Nixon, after his initial shock over the anti-war frenzy, has returned to his former confident mood. Intimates say he was buoyed by the rousing reception he received from the nation's governors and labor leaders. He is also convinced that the "silent majority" supports his bold move into Cambodia.

As evidence of his renewed assurance, say those around him, he has been seen leaning back in his presidential chair, relaxed, with his feet propped up on a pulled out drawer.

These aides also urged the President to accept the Senate amendment, which would restrict his war-making powers. But the President listened instead to his national security adviser, Henry Kissinger, who balked over any limitation on the President that might be interpreted abroad as an expression of lack of confidence.

Some aides saw this decision as typical of the President's concern with foreign above domestic consideration.

Water Shortage

The Interior Department is alarmed over the dwindling water table in many areas of the country. In Arizona, for example, the underground water level has dropped so low that some water plants are drawing out saline water.

Interior officials are counting upon cloud seeding to restore the water supply. Computers have helped the scientists figure out the exact cloud conditions that will produce precipitation. In the near future, authorities believe that seeding can be used to build up the snowpacks in the mountains. Then spring thaws should help to lift the falling water table.

LOOKS LIKE SEYMOUR HAS DECIDED TO GO STRAIGHT FROM NOW ON.

Outlook Dismal in Poverty War Based on Census Figures

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is almost always some good news to be found about improving economic conditions for some of the nation's blacks. But let's take a look this time at some of the stubbornly persistent bad news.

One of the greatest poverty trouble spots for black Americans is the family with a "female head of household." More than half of such families in the United States were below the poverty level in 1968.

The bad news is that the proportion of female-headed families in the black community is increasing. In 1969, more than 27 per cent of Negro and other nonwhite families were headed by women. In 1950, that ratio was only 17.6 per cent. Less than 10 per cent of white families are female-headed today, and that ratio has hardly changed in 20 years.

These are Census Bureau figures, of course, gleaned from an important new report this far given little notice.

The way all this works out in income terms is staggering. If you look at the earnings spread of black families, you find that at levels above $10,000 a year, some 90 per cent of the families are headed by men. Turn the lens toward the low end of the spectrum and you discover that 56 per cent of the families earning less than $3,000 a year are headed by women.

The answer, the Census report indicates, is simple but painful. A Negro woman working all year, full-time, earns only about two-thirds as much as her male counterpart. And with every passing day there are more such women, trying at once to support and to raise their families. The female heads of families who are not working (and 50 per cent do) are obviously dependent upon welfare funds altogether.

The steady upward march of that key figure — the number of black families headed by women — ought to give grave pause to lawmakers and others who glibly hold out the promise of a quick end to poverty if only we stop spending $20 billion or more on war and "get our priorities straight." And the best thing the "end poverty now" sign-bearers might do is to park their placards, take a bus ride out to Suitland, Md., (census headquarters) and ask to have a look at the figures. From a maze of charts and tables, the harsh realities will leap out at them.

Clearly, the significant gains made by many blacks in income, education, jobs and housing are being achieved despite the terrible drag effect of the poverty factor noted here.

In the very depths of the black poverty pool, nothing seems to help very much right now. For example, in many Negro families there are two or more wage-earners. But a sixth of such families are classed as poor. The extra earners do not lift them high enough.

Those who think a move to the suburbs from crumbling inner cities offers some magic answer for black families had better take another look. The percentage of Negro families below the poverty line is nearly the same for those living in suburbs as for those in central cities.

Incidentally 55 per cent of the total U.S. black population now lives in central cities — and the increase since 1960 of at least 2.6 million is due mostly to the excess of births over deaths rather than net migration from farms and smaller towns.

The high visibility of the urban black poor, concentrated incredibly in segregated ghetto zones, is misleading in one respect.

There are proportionately more poor Negro families outside U.S. urban areas than there are in the cities. Of all black families, 27 per cent lived outside metropolitan centers in 1968, but they accounted for 43 per cent of the nation's poor black families. The other 57 per cent of such poor families are found in the urban-suburban sectors, but they must be set against the fact that 73 per cent of all Negro families now reside in such areas. Obviously most of the better-off blacks are also in these centers.

The new census report is a gold mine in many other ways (example: only half of nonwhite teenagers are in school). But to tap the gold you have to want to work against poverty rather than spin verbal fantasies and pump the adrenalin so you can shout: End it now!

BERRY'S WORLD

"I've got an idea! Why don't we go on a 'fast for peace' — next Monday?"

Moon Pioneer to Head NASA in Washington

NEIL ARMSTRONG

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The first man on the moon, astronaut Neil Armstrong, has closed the door to his chances for another moon flight, announcing he would take a desk job in Washington.

The 39-year-old spaceman who commanded the Apollo 11 moon landing mission becomes head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's aeronautics program in Washington on July 1.

The move takes him out of the astronaut corps, but Armstrong said Monday he planned to keep his flying skills sharp by flying helicopters, jets and sail planes.

As head of the aeronautics program, Armstrong will oversee NASA research into all types of airports. The program is scheduled to receive $87 million in funds for fiscal year 1971.

He will succeed Charles W. Harper, who is being reassigned to assist Dr. Werner von Braun in planning future manned space flights.

Armstrong was at the controls when the Apollo 11 lunar module landed on the moon's Sea of Tranquility last July. During the early morning hours of July 20, he walked down a ladder and became the first man to step on the lunar surface.

He and astronaut Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. walked on the moon for almost three hours while the third Apollo 11 crewman, Michael Collins, orbited overhead in the command module.

Armstrong's exit leaves only Aldrin of the Apollo 11 crew still in the astronaut corps. Collins left last year to become assistant secretary of state for public affairs in Washington.

Armstrong said he had "a lot of reservations" about leaving the space program, but "I don't think that it will be a permanent parting. I foresee that space and aeronautics will not always be so far apart."

He said the space shuttle, and then land on earth like an airplane. "will require the best of both space and aeronautics."

Armstrong is currently serving on the board investigating the Apollo 13 accident. He is scheduled to travel to the Soviet Union on Saturday to speak at a meeting of the Committee on Space Research, an international organization meeting in Leningrad.

Israelis Turn Back Cairo's Canal Try

By United Press International
Israeli troops along the Suez Canal reported turning back an Egyptian crossing attempt today and killing seven of the raiders before Israeli warplanes swooped in for more strikes at Cairo's canal line.

Communicates from Tel Aviv said the planes hit Egyptian targets on the southern and central sectors of the canal for two hours beginning at 8 a.m., following up strikes Monday as far as 20 miles deep into Egypt. The announcement said all the warplanes returned safely.

Front-line reports said "a number" of Egyptian troops were caught crossing the southern sector of the waterway before dawn and were driven back to the west bank in a hail of Israeli fire.

First official word on the attempted raid said two Egyptians were killed but later, after dawn, five more bodies were found, one of them face down in the canal. The Israelis said other Egyptians were wounded but escaped to the west bank.

No Israeli losses were reported by Tel Aviv in the 15th Egyptian cross-canal operation in the past month of its canal offensive.

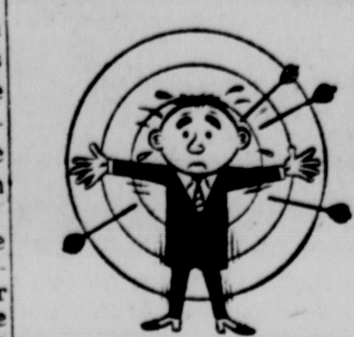

The Israeli air raids Monday into Jordan and Egypt included one strike 20 miles behind the Egyptian canal line—the deepest raid reported by Israeli military spokesmen since April 13, before Soviet pilots were said to be flying interceptors over Cairo.

One Israeli aerial mission was a 2½-hour raid against the central and southern portions of the waterway, beginning at 7:15 p.m., with Egyptian targets described as the objective.

All Israeli planes were said to have returned safely Monday. From Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said "No one can prevent us from fortifying our air defenses (along the canal), and a day must come when we liberate all our occupied territory."

Man Escapes Serious Injury In Dutchess

RHINEBECK 9G, Rhinebeck state police A Poughkeepsie motorist reported, escaped serious injury Monday. Troopers Terry Grant and Kenneth McCauliff said the driver, Jackson J. Biszick, 22, the intersection of Route 9 and of Violet Avenue was issued a summons for running a red light and must appear before Town Justice George Harrington on May 29. Biszick was taken to North Dutchess Hospital and treated for lacerations of the left cheek and abrasions. He was later released.

The operator of the Sherman cement truck of Hudson was Reginald Wilson, 41, of Tivoli. Troopers said the truck was traveling north on Route 9 and the car was proceeding East on Route 9G when Biszick passed the red light and ran under the rear wheels of the trailer. Red Hook and Rhinebeck Rescue Squads responded to the scene, troopers said.

Kent Bullets

Similar to Military Ammo

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The bullets which killed four Kent State University students during a confrontation with National Guard troops were "similar to .30 caliber military ammunition," says Portage County Coroner Robert Sybert.

He declined to elaborate on what he meant by "similar." But whether the deaths were "accidental or homicidal is undetermined and under continuing inquiry at this time," Dr. Sybert said Monday in releasing an autopsy report.

The four were killed and nine other students were wounded May 4. Guardsmen fired a volley of shots into a rock-throwing crowd of antiwar demonstrators.

The guard has maintained there is evidence that nonmilitary weapons were fired during the disturbance.

Red Hook Man Elected

KINGSTON, York State Jaycees during a re-units from Kingston, Coxsackie, Hudson, New Paltz, Red Hook, and this year provided active leadership for Red Hook, a Jaycee chapter which is only two years old, and growing at a rapid pace. He also has been active on activities outside of his own chapter. Currently he is active in the conducting of the District Special Olympics for Mentally Handicapped children and in the establishment of a Jaycee chapter in Catskill, with the Woodstock Jaycees.

The district meeting, hosted by the Kingston Jaycees, attracted over 100 Jaycees and wives. Special guests were Otto Haugland, national director of Division II from Fishkill and his wife. The Jaycees and wives, at their meeting, held the same evening elected as their new District President, Yvonne Fox of Red Hook who succeeds Joan Lawrence of Saugerties. Retiring District President, Wilson Edmunds, sent a special thanks to everyone for their Jaycee efforts throughout the year.

Library Offers Community Series

KINGSTON The Kingston Area Library will hold the first of a series of special programs designed to meet the needs of various groups in the community on Wednesday.

Patrick Sweeney, public relations consultant for Mid-Hudson Libraries will talk on the subject of Public Relations in a Changing World. More than 20 local civic organizations have already indicated that they plan to participate.

Sweeney's evening lecture will include specific suggestions on how an organization can develop better public relations techniques. He will conduct a question and answer session after the program. The library has also prepared a display of materials dealing with the topic of public relations and these will be available for circulation.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. at the Kingston Area Library and anyone wishing to attend should contact Mrs. Harry Matzen, library director.

The second program of this series will be held next Wednesday evening, May 27 and will deal with family camping. Joseph La Spisa of the New York State Department of Conservation will discuss various aspects of camping including equipment, camping techniques and public facilities available locally and throughout the state.

The Kingston Area Library invites all prospective campers and lovers of nature to attend the special program.

Wilson Seeks Win in London

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson led his governing Labor Party today into a general election battle he hopes will give it another five-year mandate and make him the first premier in the country's history to serve three consecutive terms.

Wilson's call Monday for general elections June 18 was seen by political sources as an attempt to cash in on a sudden popularity swing in Labor's favor due to newfound prosperity and the biggest single wage explosion in Britain's history.

The call came a year earlier than required by law.

Candidates for the 630 seats in parliament will start filing their nominations June 3. The new parliament will elect a speaker and swear in new lawmakers June 29, and the queen will open it in a state ceremony July 2.

Saugerties Town Board Takes Positive Action

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

SAUGERTIES

A demand by residents of the High Woods-Fish Creek area for immediate action to control the conduct of a series of sound festivals reportedly planned for this summer at a farm site in their area and a solution of the dumping problems moved Saugerties Town Board to positive action at the Monday night adjourned meeting of the board.

- These were the results:
- The town's Local Law on assemblage will be amended and a public hearing scheduled.
  - A deputy town attorney will be appointed to draft the amendments in the absence of Town Attorney Louis P. Francello.

- A quarry hole in High Woods partially filled with junk cars, abandoned appliances and other refuse will be covered.
- Other unsightly areas will be cleared of refuse.

More than 50 people attended the adjourned meeting in the town hall, most of them from the affected areas. Delegates from the High Woods-Fish Creek area expressed their demands both verbally and by letters read by Supervisor A. Michael Schovel. The group debated the problems affecting the area at a meeting held Sunday at High Woods Sportsmen's Clubhouse and outlined a form of action.

Councilman Bernard Rinaldi

read several recommendations for amendments to strengthen the Local Law. He noted that he had legal advice on the draft he read.

The changes proposed called for a permit system for assemblages of 50 or more people. A permit must be obtained by the promoters from the County Health Department which would indicate that proper health facilities would be provided and would declare the number of people expected to attend. The Health Department permit must accompany an application to the Town Board which listed similar requirements.

Included in the town application proposed under the amendment is the requirement for sufficient personnel to control a large gathering and sufficient parking space to eliminate the blocking of roads and highways in the areas and also to prevent parking on private property in the area.

The penalties for violations would be $500 or 60 days in jail or both for the first offense and the same for each day the violation continues.

Mrs. Catherine Dunn, spokesman for the group indicated agreement with the stipulations of the amendment.

Councilman George Turner suggested that the existing Local Law be repealed and a new one drafted embodying the more stringent regulations. To expedite matters it was decided to consider the amendment and proceed with a public hearing at the earliest possible date after meeting legal requirements of publications.

Mrs. Dunn suggested that creation of a public nuisance should be defined in the Local Law.

At this point it was noted by Supervisor Schovel that the town attorney was out of town and would not be available until May 25. Many in the audience called for immediate action and did not want to wait for the return of the town attorney. The Town Board debated the matter of appointing a deputy town attorney to start on the draft of the amendment immediately. Turner and Councilman Francis Myer were named to seek the services of a local attorney to fill the post. It was agreed by the Town Board that as soon as the final draft is completed the board would advertise a public hearing date.

Last night's meeting was a continuation of the Thursday night town meeting which was adjourned due to the late hour.

In other business, the Town Board agreed to inspect areas where drainage problems were reported with the town's newly appointed engineer, Alex Diachishin of Napanoch.

The Board agreed to advertise for bids on a front-end loader or backhoe for the town landfill site and a dump truck for the Town Highway Department. The bid offering will be made as soon as specifications are completed. The Highway Department was authorized to purchase a tractor for $600.

It was announced that the town received authorization from the County Health Department to fill in the quarry hole on the Bruce Dixon property which has been reported by the High Woods-Fish Creek residents as "unsightly and a health hazard." Supervisor Schovel said the Town Highway Department will cover the debris with shale.

Several house trailer permits were considered with three approved and two denied.

There were six applications for junkyard permits. Two were disapproved and the Town Board agreed to make an on-site inspection of those denied permits to determine if corrective measures could be taken to bring them in compliance with the town law.

A public hearing was scheduled for Monday, June 1 at 8 p.m. in the town hall to determine disposition of the permits.

VACCINE PRESENTATION—The Ulster County Chapter, March of Dimes, recently presented to Dr. William C. Taylor (third from left), Ulster County Health Commissioner, 500 units of Rubella vaccine for the vaccination of boys and girls throughout the county to prevent them from spreading the disease to pregnant women. The Ulster County Chapter is co-operating with the Health Department to prevent a Rubella epidemic which is expected in 1970-71. All parents are asked to have their children vaccinated against rubella at the earliest opportunity. Participating in the presentation were: (L-R) Meyer Kaplan, Ulster County chairman; Edgar M. Maurer, chapter vice-chairman; Dr. Taylor; and George M. Barthel, Town of Wawarsing committee co-chairman. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Exemption for Senior Housing

SAUGERTIES

A resolution which would exempt proposed senior citizen housing from Saugerties Village taxes on assessments exceeding $150,000 was passed unanimously by the Saugerties Village Board at a meeting held Monday night.

The resolution was prepared by Village Attorney Daniel Lamb and the attorney for the Council of Churches, Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr.

A public hearing was scheduled for June 8 at 7 p.m. in the office of the village clerk to act on a request of G. Thomas Rea Sr. for a variance to the zoning ordinance. Rea seeks the variance which would allow him to operate a barber shop from his home at 3 Division Street, Saugerties.

Mayor Cornelius Cox announced that the village negotiating team will meet with a state-appointed mediator and members of the Police Department and their union, Tuesday, May 26 at 8 p.m.

Thomas Beckert, a representative of the local citizens who are sponsoring the annual mum festival in Saugerties, reported on the progress made in connection with plans for the two-week festival which will be held in October. The yearly display has attracted thousands of persons to Saugerties. Beckert said he is to meet with the Parks Commission and Seamon Park Board in the next few days to work out details of the festival.

A letter of resignation was received with regret from George W. Gardner who has been for many years the operator of the Saugerties Sewer Disposal Plant.

Acceptance for Medicare Patients

NEW PALTZ

The New Paltz Nursing Home announced that Medicare patients will once more be accepted for admission at the home, located at 1 Jansen Road, New Paltz.

In March, Norton Blue RN, administrator of the home, stated that extended care benefits of Medicare (part 1) "have become increasingly difficult to secure for your patients. Through administrative interpretations, the prevailed."

scope of benefits has narrowed to fit the fiscal needs of the program rather than the health care needs of the patients."

The return to the prior policy of admitting Medicare patients to the nursing home is the result of "great efforts by men of good faith in all areas of the legislature, the controlling agencies, fiscal intermediaries and the general public. Legislation to remove inequities has been presented and a general climate of fairness and concern for patients' rights has prevailed."

Blue's contention in March was that a patient entering a nursing home has no assurance that he will qualify for benefits or that benefits will not be retroactively withdrawn leaving him with an unanticipated financial burden. Blue further stated that this uncertainty produced great hardship for these people and has intended to increase hospital stays to the point of breaking down the system.

Blue explained in March that delegates of the Extended Care Facilities of the state met reportedly with top administration officials responsible for the program in an effort to change the inequities.

Blue now claims that "our objectives have been achieved and we can in good faith again participate in a needed program." he also stated, "There may be a period of transition in which some of the old inequities can occur; but we see them as isolated instances that will respond to appeal mechanisms."

State Convention Held in Buffalo; Teachers Attend

The Delta Kappa Gamma State Convention took place in Buffalo May 15-17 and two area residents attended. They are: Miss May Evans, director of pupil personnel services, Saugerties, N.Y., and Mrs. Frieda Dingee, director of Multi-Media Center in Kingston City Schools Consolidated. Miss Evans is a member of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Association.

The session marked the 34th annual Pi State convention of Delta Kappa Gamma, an international society honoring women in the teaching profession. The meeting was in the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

After the formal banquet on Saturday evening, May 16, Dr. Dorothy L. Johnson, international president, spoke on the topic "Facing Ourselves: What We Believe and Why." At the luncheon meeting Miss Helen Maly who recently returned from a teaching assignment in the Philippines discussed "Education in the Philippines: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." Also speaking at that session was Mrs. Verna Fancett whose topic was "Understanding Important Current Issues."

Better Less Than More

Consistent with the emphasis on "naturalness" in the new decade, women may profit from reexamining their make-up application technique. If you think you're wearing a little too much blusher, foundation or whatever, remove it. It's better to be under-than over-make-up.

Cottage Cheese

One-half cup of creamed cottage cheese adds only 120 calories to your diet, but it supplies nearly the same amount of protein as a medium serving of fish, poultry, lean meat or three eggs.

MAY DAY PROCESSION — Kingston High School May Queen Alicia Bassett led the processional during opening ceremonies of the May Day program Friday at Kate Walton Field House. Train bearers were Mia and Alicia Bassett, nieces of the Queen. Miss Cinday Harder was maid of honor. The court included the Misses Paji Jones, Bernice Fox, Julie McClearn, Mary Kay Lannen, Dianna Clark and Eileen Mills. Marlin Morrette directed the KHS Band. In keeping with past observances, the Queen and her court were dressed in Grecian style gowns and students participated in traditional May Pole dance afterwards. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Joe Mannello Jr. Recently Named To Dean's List

Joseph Mannello Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mannello Sr. of 56 Second Avenue, Kingston, was named to dean's list for the winter quarter at the School of Business, Florida State University. It was announced recently by Dean Charles Rovetta.

A member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Delta Sigma Pi, a professional business fraternity, Mannello is a business education major. He transferred to Florida State University in the fall of 1969 after attending Ulster County Community College for two years where he completed the required courses for the accounting program.

While at UCCC, he starred on the varsity bowling team for two seasons and was named to the All Star Team of the League. In his second season, he was voted the most outstanding player. The team won the League title for two years and numerous collegiate tournaments.

Mannello plans to complete his degree work in June, 1971, and go on to graduate school.

Banquet Tonight

The annual banquet of Port Ewen Chapter of Home Bureau will be held this evening at 6:30 o'clock in Roberto's Restaurant, Port Ewen.

A meeting will take place afterwards at the home of Dotty Bell in Port Ewen.

Medical Problems Signaled by Medic Alert

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS

Most questions concerning the state of one's health will elicit an answer of "fine," but rosy-checked, attractive Linda Collins Maurer thinks the answer is not that simple.

"That's one major problem in saving lives," commented the registered nurse titled amateur golfer, homemaker, and mother of three. "Most people never think about their hidden medical problems— allergies, diabetes, epilepsy, or even the fact that they wear contact lenses. Yet not being aware of these potential sources of trouble and, more importantly, not making others aware of these ailments may cost these people their lives."

Fourteen years ago, she recalled, she didn't have any idea that she was allergic to tetanus antitoxin. "I was about 14 and I remember gashing my hand. Being a doctor's daughter, I was aware of the dangers of infection. So I went to the local medical center — my father was not at home — and asked to have the cut treated. The doctor cleaned and bandaged my hand, then properly scratched a droplet of tetanus antitoxin into my skin to check for a reaction." Within minutes, Linda collapsed, struck down by the fatal allergic reaction.

After she recovered, her father worried about preventing a repetition of the incident. At first he taped a note to her wrist, put a note inside her purse and alerted everyone with whom she might come in contact. But when the time came for her to go away to study nursing at Stanford University, her father realized these precautions wouldn't be enough.

"First my father thought of tattooing me, but my mother and I vetoed that," Linda says with a smile. "Finally, we came up with the idea of a bracelet." She said, pointing to her chain-link silver bracelet with an eye-catching disk. On the front is a caduceus, the symbol of the medical profession and the words "Medic Alert." On the back is engraved the warning, "allergic to Tetanus Antitoxin, Sulphur, and Aspirin."

Today, a similar bracelet stainless steel instead of silver or necklace is worn by 300,000 members of Medic Alert in the United States and in 11 foreign countries. The nonprofit foundation, headquartered in Turlock, Calif., is concerned that this figure is minute compared to the total number of persons who have hidden medical problems.

Statistically, the American Medical Association estimates that 40 million Americans should be wearing such a medical signaling device. "and it's not only for people who have experienced some trouble," added Linda.

"If a person is rendered unconscious in an accident, a doctor should know that the person wears contacts so they can be removed before any damage is done to the cornea."

Linda, her husband — a Palo Alto clinical psychiatrist — and her parents are very much involved in Medic Alert. Her father is president, her mother serves as secretary-treasurer, and her husband is vice-president. Linda is especially concerned with incorporating the program into first-aid training programs spreading the word to law enforcement agencies, doctors, police, ambulance personnel, stewardesses and others who might be confronted with someone who has a hidden medical problem.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is an idea I got from my 10-year-old daughter (I have four of them).

Patricia needed a piece of material to make an apron in school. Since I sew a lot I had a large enough piece from a dress that I made for myself.

After she had made it at school she gave the apron to me as a gift.

One day I had on the same dress (a dressy one) and needed an apron, so I just reached for one and happened to pick that one.

Later, I had to pick the girls up from school to go shopping and when I got out of the car my oldest daughter laughed and said, "Mom, you've still got your apron on." That was when the idea struck me. Why not make an apron for each dress that I made and use this for entertaining at home?

You can always purchase a little extra material and it takes just a short time to make the apron.

Much more attractive than the regular hostess aprons. You can hardly tell you have one on like I did.

Hazel

That's the niftiest cover-up job and no one the wiser!
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband gave me a small paint brush with all pure bristles and said to use this to dust my records.

Gets the dust off right away and very little trouble.

I just leave the little brush in the record cabinet and "paint" each record before I play it.

Mrs. M. R. T.

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever think of taking a piece of used, crinkled, wadded-up foil and using it for draining your bacon? This is especially good if you warm the foil in your oven.

As soon as you lift the bacon out of your skillet, lay it on the crinkled foil! You will find that the excess grease will drain down into the folds in the bottom of the foil.

Besides, the heat of the foil takes more grease out of the bacon.

Reader

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

The friend with whom I correspond regularly knows I do not get a Sunday paper. Each week she clips Heloise to include in her letter and do I ever appreciate it!

C. C.

Dear Heloise:

I have a little 13-month-old daughter who is at that curious stage: opening drawers, cabinets, etc.

So to keep her busy, I cleaned out one floor cabinet lined it with colorful paper, and filled it with her toys.

Then I let her know that this was hers and the rest of the cabinets were mine.

It worked!

GREET DISTINGUISHED GUEST — More than 130 attended the annual mother and daughter banquet last week in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp held in conjunction with the 260th anniversary of the church. Greeting the guest speaker, Ruth McGeeney, Miss Ulster County of 1970, are Mrs. Janice Dengler (far right) program chairman and mistress of ceremonies, and Erica Anderson (front) and Wendy Wilhelm. Miss McGeeney also entertained with vocal and guitar solos. Recognition was given to all mothers. The program included a fashion show of wedding gowns, old and new belonging to women who had been married in the church. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Isn't It A Pleasure To Do Business

with someone who knows your name?

To your neighboring HEATING OIL supplier, you are more than a number or something to "not fold, spindle or mutilate."

He knows you by name . . . and can quickly determine your year-round heating requirements, so you never run out of fuel oil.

He is interested in providing you with the very best and most courteous service at the least possible cost to you, for there are other dealers interested in doing the same.

And now that most of the heating season is over, we suggest you talk to your heating oil dealer about installing an oil water heater.

Chances are you have more than enough fuel in your tank right now to take care of your hot water needs for many months to come. In fact, your supplier will show you how, in a very short time, you can pay for your oil water heater out of the savings alone.

Jones-Bonavita Wedding Told

Miss Patricia Ann Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Jones, 25 Presidents Place, Kingston, exchanged nuptial vows with Peter J. Bonavita, Quantico, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bonavita, 91 Crane Street, Kingston, Saturday, May 16 at St. Peter's Church, this city.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis P. Brennan officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Nan Goldrick, organist, accompanied Mrs. Thomas Kechn who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews. Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a Chantilly lace, Empire, A-line gown which was softly gathered in the back from the waistline. Small covered buttons trimmed the entire length of the gown in front. The gown was styled with a ring neckline and tapered sleeves. She wore a mantilla bordered with Chantilly lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white marguerites, white orchids, and gypsophylla tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Linda Boice Via was matron of honor in a floor-length, empire, A-line gown of blue chiffon over linen. The gown was styled with a scooped neckline, softly gathered Viennese lace with ribbon lacing at the waistline and cuffs of Bishop sleeves. The back of the gown featured a continuous panel attached at the bodice, with matching satin ribbon at the neckline. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and blue marguerites and gypsophylla tied with white satin ribbon. Miss Joanne Healey was maid of honor in a gown fashioned identically to that of the matron of honor's. Her cascade bouquet was yellow and white marguerites and gypsophylla tied with white satin ribbon.

Attendants were Miss Karen Bonavita, Kingston, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Florence Danczak, Port Jervis, cousin of the bride; and Miss Mary Ellen Mahoney, a marriage counselor college roommate of the bride. Their gowns were identical in styling to those of the honor attendants and they carried marguerites and gypsophylla tied with satin ribbons to match. All attendants wore headpieces of marguerites and gypsophylla to match their bouquets.

Joseph L. Bonavita of Albany was best man for his brother. Ushers were John Salapatis, cousin of the bride; Carl Rea, Glasco, cousin of the bridegroom; John Dudash, St. Louis, Mo.; and Phil Reilly of New York.

A reception for 250 guests was held at at Walnut Grove Restaurant, Field Court, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to the Bahamas, the bride selected an ensemble of natural flax striped in cordovan brown and black with bone accessories and a white sweetheart rose corsage.

The bride, a graduate of St. Ursula Academy, received her BS degree in Business from

MRS. PETER J. BONAVITA
(Lakeside Studio)

State University of New York at Albany. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, attended North Eastern University in Boston, Mass., and is a lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps, stationed at Quantico, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonavita will reside at Fuller Heights Road, Quantico Terrace Apartments, Apt. 23, Triangle, Va.

Tiny Tips

EMPHASIS IS ON KNITS
The day of the cocktail dress may be over. The emphasis is on clingy knits and jerseys that dress down for daytime; up for evening.

JACKET SUIT
The cardigan jacket suit, one of the season's best looks, is soft, easy, unconstructed. Many include a swing pleated skirt.

LONGER LENGTHS FORECAST

Norman Norell, president of the Council of Fashion Designers of America, says there is no question that longer skirts are on the way in. "But I don't mean an exaggerated drop," he said. "I believe in a choice of just above, just below the knee or mid-calf, depending on the proportion of the dress."

When children discover a playmate wets the bed—the result can be merciless teasing. And serious psychological problems. Even the entire family can be affected. The cost and work of taking care of a bed-wetting child can cause friction and irritability among parents.

Walter C. Alvarez, M.D., Prof. Emeritus, Mayo Clinic, says:

"Bedwetting . . . is hard on the unhappy child and on the mother . . . even if his parents do not scold him, he cannot help feeling that he is a terrible nuisance and a disgrace to the family." But now bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Safely. Permanently. Pacific International has ended bedwetting for tens of thousands of children and adults from ages 4 to 57 in the past two decades. Available are a limited number of valuable 16-page brochures, "Is There A SOLUTION?" Mail coupon NOW for your free copy. No obligation.

Sailboat Racing Club is Planned

KINGSTON club and participate in regularly scheduled and sanctioned races. The three gentlemen involved in the promotion of the club are Scott Alexander, George Hutton of Kingston and Bill Wilson of Rhinebeck.

Persons interested in joining the club may contact any of the three for information about The International 420, an exciting class of sailboat with good qualifications for use on the Kingston-Rhinebeck section of the Hudson River. They report the 420 is being purchased in good quantities by local sailing enthusiasts, since the boat is world wide in appeal.

There is considerable competitive activity for The International 420 on the lower Hudson River, they report. The 420s are already in use with five fleets on the lower Hudson. Northern Hemisphere fleets include the Canadian Navy, and the sailing clubs at West Point and Yale University.

Alexander, one of the local fleet sponsors, is a competition sailor with considerable planning hull sailboat experience. He has raced Five-O-Fives and Finns, an Olympic class one-man boat. He has won Long Island Sound Championships in both classes.

Other 420 sailors, including the 1969 U. S. champion and runnerup, have indicated they will compete at Kingston.

A loyal fleet charter is being applied for from the U. S. 420 Association, with the intent of providing assistance to novice sailors and would-be racing enthusiasts, sponsoring teenage and adult inter-fleet regatta, and assisting in Hudson River conservation efforts.

Originally designed as a high performance training boat for junior racing programs, the 420 has received broad general acceptance because of its inherently good characteristics. The boat handles satisfactorily with three people aboard and races with a crew of two.

The overall length of the all-fiber glass planning type hull is 13 feet, 9 inches, having full-length built-in buoyancy tanks. Hull weight is 200 pounds, allowing it to be cartopped or transported on a light trailer.

Sail rigging includes main, jib and spinnaker. The class design is highly controlled, with minimum extras to buy and minimum design changes.

Curlins Bat Wards to Win

KINGSTON Ten-year-old Danny Curlin slammed an 0-2 pitch for a game-winning single, as Montgomery Wards edged Lions Club, 5-4, in the American Little League seasonal opener.

Danny's older brother, Dennis Curlin, had tripled with two outs to set the stage for Danny, who was "0 for 3" coming to the plate. It was Dennis' second triple of the game.

Richard Naccarato, who relieved Dennis Curlin, was the winning pitcher.

Wards collected seven hits off Michael Palmer and Paul Mercier of the Lions. Pat Howard had a double, Robert Yonta and Palmer had single-double combinations for the Lions. Mercier fanned 12.

Wards 103 000 1-5 Lions 003 001 0-4

Dennis Curlin, Richard Naccarato and Mark Van Kleck; Paul Mercier, Michael Palmer and Anthony Albany.

Cheval Chances Takes Feature

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI)—Cheval Chances paced to a 3 1/2-length victory over Ready Dares Monday night in the $12,000 feature at Saratoga Har-ness.

Joe DeSantis drove the winner to a 2:06 finish to pay $29.20, $11.60 and $4.40. Robert Allen was third.

The 8-1 double of Sure Shot Anne and Local Frost paid $86.20.

A crowd of 2,861 bet $212,674.

Small Star

Star playmaker of Michigan State's 1969-70 basketball team was 5-foot-5 guard Gary Ganakas, son of the head Spar-ton coach, Gus Ganakas.

GARY CORWIN, runnerup in the 1969 National Championships, shown piloting the International 420 model which is used in sailing championship events. He is expected in Kingston this summer.

Fruit to the Flesh Merchants
Save Rosie From Pauper Grave

LONDON (UPI)—"Bye me old darlin'," sniffed a portly woman in a rose-bedecked hat as the three Rolls-Royces of Rosie's funeral cortege passed. The harlots, fruit vendors and policemen who knew him jammed Soho's sidewalks in tribute.

Rosie's real name was Timothy Cotter, 54. He died last week in Brixton Prison. An alcoholic, he was sent up when he couldn't pay a $12 fine for drunkenness.

Rosie was headed for a pauper's grave until Jack Hardiman, one of the Soho district's many fruit vendors, passed the hat.

Collecting from merchants of everything from fruit to flesh, Hardiman came up with $550 and arranged a first class funeral and a headstone for Rosie, who left no known relatives.

The two limousines following the hearse in the procession that crept through the neighborhood Monday were stacked with more than 50 floral tributes.

"Gor, looka all them flowers," said one flower vendor. "All for old Rosie."

Strippers from the matinee peep parlors of Wardour Street, cabaret managers, policemen, flower and fruit merchants were among the hundreds who gathered at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady of the Assumption and St. Gregory for the funeral.

The Rev. John McDonald eulogized Rosie as "a gay and lively character who has disappeared from the Soho scene. He brought joy to many with his unique personality."

Soho was kept amused by Rosie's traffic-stopping song and dance routines. He was a short, wiry man with receding hair.

Also taken to Benedictine was Constance A. DePrimo, 19, of 502 Broad Street, Horseheads, the driver of the second car. She sustained contusions of the right knee and a cut lip.

Also injured were Marie Gates who was reportedly "shaken up" and Anna Marie Reilly who received contusions of the leg, chest and right arm.

According to Deputy Sheriff Roger Lapp, who investigated the accident, the Gates car was proceeding north on Lucas Turnpike when the driver applied brakes while traveling behind an unknown vehicle, and his car slid to the left of the center line and into the path of the DePrimo car which was traveling in the southbound lane.

Four persons received injuries Monday at 11:45 a. m. in a collision on the Lucas Avenue Turnpike at the four corners in High Falls.

Peter Gates, 85, of Mill Hill Road, Allgerville, was taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering with contusions and abrasions of the left arm.

Foreign Bankers Confident in U.S.

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Young, chairman of Canada's European and Canadian bank-Prices and Income Commission, said they are confident the United States will solve its economic problems, even though some Americans seem pessimistic.

Allen T. Lambert, chairman of the Toronto Dominion Bank, put it this way: "Your own people can contribute to a credibility gap who live here," remarked John

Shandaken Blood Bank Drawing Set May 27th

ALLABEN Bank to insure continued success of the program. Blood Bank which is sponsored by the Town of Shandaken Public Health Committee is having a Blood Bank drawing on Wednesday, May 27, from 7 to 9 p. m. at the Town Hall, Allaben.

The Community Blood Bank is an essential medical facility today. It saves lives, time and money for those who are ill. It also makes it possible for residents of this township to draw on the bank.

Blood may be replaced by asking relatives and friends to donate in the recipient's name. New donors are being recruited by the Shandaken Blood Michigan, Arizona, California, Florida, Maryland, Minnesota and New York are each busily putting 10,000 criminal records into shape for computer storage.

Each individual whose files are computerized will be identified by a code stored at the State Police computer center.

One state will tell the computer it wants to know which other states have records on a certain individual.

The computer will search the identification files and report the results.

The whole process would take only a few minutes, as opposed to the great delays now involved in thumbing through sheafs of paper and exchanging information by phone or mail.

Three states not involved in the computer connection system at this point—Connecticut, Texas and Washington—are nonetheless going through the complicated process of coding information into computer talk or participating in other segments of the demonstration.

Five other states—Colorado, Illinois, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania—are observing the system and may join in if it is judged to be successful.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Emilio Pizzarello gets his $100,000 back from the government Wednesday. It took him five years and almost endless court battles.

With the help of a Wells Fargo armored truck, Pizzarello will claim all but $25,882 of $125,882 federal agents took from the safe in his tiny Mount Vernon luncheonette April 15, 1965, when he was accused of being a bookie.

In retaliation Pizzarello hired a lawyer, James G. Starkey, and in the course of his long battle with the government got the U. S. Supreme Court to declare one law illegal and the Internal Revenue Service to reduce a $282,440 tax claim against him to $25,882.

When the agents broke into his diner, they accused Pizzarello of being a bookie, charged him with failure to pay a $50 federal gambling tax and demanded he open the safe. He refused, was taken for booking and agents later opened the safe and extracted $125,000.

Pizzarello fought the gambling stamp charge all the way to the Supreme Court, which declared the law unconstitutional.

Then the government sought to keep Pizzarello's money on grounds it was a "bank" to be used in "violation of federal laws."

Starkey argued the money had been seized illegally since Pizzarello was not in the luncheonette when it was taken. He won a favorable ruling.

But the government did not give up. It charged Pizzarello owed $282,000 in taxes and said it was keeping the $125,882 as a down payment.

Pizzarello went back to court and, after more litigation, the government agreed to settle for $25,882.

Starkey pointed out it was a long way from Manhattan to suburban Mount Vernon and asked the government to provide a marshal to "ride shotgun" while Pizzarello took the money to a bank.

So Pizzarello hired a Wells Fargo truck to transport the money, which he intends to pick up at the court house Wednesday.

NEW YORK (AP)—Central Park will be closed to automobiles Tuesday and Wednesday evenings from now until the end of the summer, August Heckscher, city administrator of parks, recreation and cultural affairs announced Monday.

The new weekday restriction on automobiles is from 7 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. In addition, the park will continue to be closed to traffic on Saturdays from sunrise to 7 p. m. and Sundays from sunrise to 10:30 p. m.

Heckscher said Prospect Park in Brooklyn, starting this weekend, will be closed to traffic Saturdays from sunrise to sunset.

The Brooklyn park will continue to be closed to cars on Sundays for the same hours.

The Second Time—Big Bore

NEW YORK (AP)—The song plus ABC's "Movie of the Week," 90-minute features made for initial TV use. Another four and one-half hours of movie will be added temporarily.

Old movies constitute the most important ingredient in network programming today, but almost 20 hours of them a week in prime time does make one wonder what ever happened to TV's creative initiative.

Viewers whose attention was held Monday night by a rerun of a 10-year-old Vincent Price horror movie were not likely to stick around for the short documentary that followed. It was a feature that, even in their youth, were the short end of a double feature.

At the moment, the three networks are devoting more than 14 hours a week to precious prime evening time to films originally shown in theatres.

Bill Hillard, who died at 21, came from Randolph, N.Y. He left a young wife, Rosemary.

Expert Squeezed on Percentages

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another hand that shows experts at their worst. South is in a very good spade slam since all he needs to bring it home is to take care of either the queen of trumps or king of diamonds. Roughly, his chance of success is 75 per cent. Any time your chance of making a slam is better than 50 per cent, you belong in the slam.

Expert South will play correctly and go down. He will enter dummy with a club at trick two in order to take a first-round spade finesse. West will make his singleton queen and later on East will collect the setting trick with the king of diamonds.

Why is South's play correct, although a losing one? Aren't you supposed to postpone a finesse for the queen until the second round?

Yes and no. You are supposed to postpone a queen finesse until the second round if you will also be able to finesse on the third round in case the finessable queen is backed up by three small cards in the suit. Thus, if dummy held South's five of spades, South would be correct in cashing a high spade and then entering dummy to finesse the nine spot.

REMOVED: Riot-ready police remove students from administration building at Opa Locka, Fla. at predominantly black Florida Memorial College. The students had taken over the administration. The students had moved into the one-story building in the morning to dramatize a list of demands and then would not leave the building.

Demonstrations Continue

By United Press International
Police cleared 200 demonstrators from Florida Memorial College Monday night. Thirty-seven persons were arrested on the campus of the University of Alabama.
Police used tear gas on the Opa-Locka Campus of Florida Memorial College to scatter students surrounding the Administration Building. They forcibly removed a small contingent which had seized the structure to back a list of demands.
Two Dade County public safety officers were slightly injured and two newsmen were attacked. Twenty-six students were arrested and tentatively charged with disorderly conduct.
Between 150 and 200 persons took part in a candlelight march on the University of Alabama campus in Tuscaloosa. Nearly 100 gathered on the steps of the Student Union and began chanting, "Pig, pig, pig." Police asked the demonstrators to leave and arrested 37 who refused, a school spokesman said.
About 150 Northern Illinois University students broke from to attend an "antiwar commencement." The university graduated 3,784 students.
One hundred fifty students briefly took over a Seattle (Wash.) University building Monday, only hours after the school's president had promulgated a list of "no nonsense" rules for campus conduct.
The third firebombing in a week did about $500 damage to an office Monday at Bradley University in Peoria, Ill.
Several schools, including the University of Washington, Northern Illinois, the University of Minnesota, branch campuses of the University of Cincinnati and Teachers College at Columbia University in New York were closed Monday to mourn student deaths.
Two Ohio schools, Miami University and Ashland College, reopened peacefully. Ohio State University readmitted graduate students Monday and planned to resume undergraduate classes today.
The University of South Carolina announced police would leave the campus guarded since a student occupation May 7.

The Chief Justice Issues a Caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger cautioned today against a judicial overreaction to rebellious defendants and others challenging the American system of justice.
"Some say that we must 'crack down,' that we must 'smash' the challengers and restore tight discipline," Burger said in a speech prepared for the American Law Institute.
"In periods of stress there are always some voices raised urging that we suspend fundamental guarantees and take shortcuts as a matter of self-protection."
"But this is not our way of doing things short of a giant national emergency."
The chief justice told the assembled lawyers, judges and law professors that Americans have never been a tightly disciplined people and the nation's legal structure consequently has been more relaxed than in many other countries.
"If this has negative aspects," he said, "it also gives us a resiliency to tide us over and enable us to meet any crisis as it arises. We will respond slowly but that is the nature of a democratic society."
"In those few periods of our history when we suspended basic guarantees of the individual in times of great national emergency we often found, in retrospect, that we had overreacted."
Burger said the Supreme Court responded to disruptive trials with the unanimous decision March 31 upholding the power of judges to maintain order.
"It would be foolhardy not to be concerned about the turmoil and strife and violence we witness, much of it mindless and devoid of constructive ends," he said.
"But concern must not give way to panic."
The chief justice said he is optimistic American institutions are durable enough to surmount any attack. And he said "we need urgently to find ways to convince the young that progress is not made in great leaps."
Burger said systems of justice are under challenge throughout the world, reflecting an uneasy temper of the times.

HEW Boss Stricken, Session Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, whose unprecedented confrontation with critics within his own department was called off when he was suddenly hospitalized, plans to reschedule the mass meeting as soon as he is able.
Finch called the session for Monday to discuss charges from HEW employees that he has let important policy matters drift from his hands, particularly dealing with civil rights. But an hour-and-a-half before the afternoon meeting, Finch was rushed to Walter Reed Army Hospital with numbness in his left arm and hand.
HEW Undersecretary John G. Veneman told the department employees who filled an auditorium and several other rooms of Finch's ailment and said the secretary would reschedule the meeting at the earliest possible time. He then read the statement Finch had prepared for the meeting.
In that statement, Finch generally defended Nixon administration domestic and foreign policies, but conceded he and have become isolated from dissenting opinion both within and without the department.
Finch appeared to take issue with President Nixon's plea for a lowering of voices, saying, "It is not sufficient, simply to lower our voices. We must sincerely want to listen, and to understand what people really are trying to say to one another."
At another point, Finch rapped criticism of universities, an apparent reference to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's continuing attacks on student dissidents and campus officials.
"We must recognize, while we continue to exhort institutions to renewal, what a superb job the universities by and large have done," he said.

He also attempted to quiet rumors that HEW planned no longer to withhold federal funds from school districts that refuse to desegregate.

"COFFEE BREAK"

With Bill Skilling and Evie Navy

Every Tuesday and Thursday Morning at 9:30 a.m.

Bill: Hey, Evie, what's all the excitement about?

Evie: Didn't I tell you. The second anniversary of Coffee Break is coming up Tuesday, May 26th, and EVERYONE can win prizes in our Good News Contest! Tell 'em how they can win, Bill . . . just speak right up . . . don't be bashful.

Bill: Oh, may I? Okay . . . just send a card or letter telling us about someone you'd like to nominate: a friend, a neighbor, a relative . . . someone who's gone out of his way to be helpful or kind. We all know people like this. Here's your chance to say, "Thank you!"

Evie: Then, mail it to Coffee Break, WGHQ, 82 John Street, Kingston, and you're eligible for great prizes, lots of 'em. Winning letters will be read on Coffee Break!

Bill: We'll give you more details when you listen to Coffee Break each Tuesday and each Thursday morning, at 9:30 a. m.

Evie: And — if you don't know anyone to nominate —
Bill: Go out and do a good deed . . . yourself!

My Lai Attorney Raps the Army

BOSTON (UPI)—The attorney for one of the soldiers accused of murder in the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam charged today the Army is frustrating attempts by defense lawyers to provide a fair trial for the defendants.
"There's no way in the world that these guys can properly defend themselves," said attorney Frank G. McGee Jr., who is representing Spec.4 William Doherty, 21, of Boston.
McGee told UPI he decided to break his silence over the case because the "Army is stacking the deck" against the men accused in the incident which reportedly occurred March 16, 1968, in My Lai 4, a hamlet in South Vietnam. Hundreds of civilians allegedly were slaughtered by American soldiers. Seven other enlisted men and four officers are charged in addition to Doherty.
For example, he said, since March 31 he has filed 16 motions with the Army at Ft. McPherson, Ga., 2nd Army headquarters where Doherty is stationed.
"I have not even received a piece of correspondence acknowledging receipt of those motions. Absolute total silence on the part of the prosecution," McGee said.
